The method used in this research is quantitative correlation with the Spearman Correlation approach. The sampling technique used was purposive sampling, with the number of respondents being 100 single mothers in Balongpanggang District. The assessment of the research instrument used a rating scale from a Likert scale with a score of 1-5. Based on the calculations in the hypothesis test, it can be seen that H_a is accepted and H_0 is rejected because it is known that the r value is 0.084653465 or the KP value is 0.72% and $t_{(count)} \leq t_{(table)}$ or $0.841046 \leq 1.29025$. So from these calculations it can be concluded that there is a significant relationship between single mother roles and learning disciplinary behavior of children in Balongpanggang District, and the degree of relationship or correlation coefficient is in the very low category, or in other words learning disciplinary behavior of children is influenced by the role of a single mother. 0.72%, while 99.28% is influenced by other factors.
