

ABSTRACT

Nikmatul Islamiyah. 200511100084. English Study Program. An Analysis of Code Mixing Found in Iqbaal Ramadhan's X Account. Universitas Trunojoyo Madura.

This study is expected to provide benefits for students to understand and learn code mixing. In addition, this research is relevant in the scope of linguistics because it enriches the insight into linguistic phenomena in multilingual societies and its contribution to sociolinguistic studies. The study employs a descriptive qualitative method. Data of the study was collected from words, phrases, clauses, and sentences in Iqbaal's tweets that contain code-mixing. Pieter Musken's (2000) theory was applied to categorize the types of code mixing, and Suwito's (1983) theory was used to identify the levels of code mixing.

Based on the results of the analysis, there were 27 data of code-mixing. Based on the type of code mixing, 24 data are classified as insertion, 2 data as alternation, and 1 data as congruent lexicalization. Based on the level, 16 data are at word level, 6 data at phrase level, 6 data at hybrid level, 2 data at idiom level, and 1 data at clause level. This study aims to identify the types and levels of code-mixing used by Iqbaal Ramadhan in his tweets on his X account from 2022 to 2023.

Key words: Code mixing, Iqbaal Ramadhan, Qualitative descriptive, Sociolinguistics, X account.
