

ABSTRACT

Putra, Al Ryan Mahameru. (15.05.1.1.1.00057). Social Minority In Michael Ryan's Poem "The Others" Goldmann Genetic Structuralism. Thesis. English Study Program of the Faculty of Social and Cultural Science, University of Trunojoyo Madura. Advisor: Imron Wakhid Harits, Ph.D.

The aims of this study are to reveal how is the social minority's condition reflected and related to Michael Ryan's Poem The Other structure and how is the influence of society affect the way social minority's condition reflected and related to Michael Ryan's Poem. The researcher applies genetic structuralism theory in order to analyze social minority in the poem.

This study applied qualitative research because the researcher has to interpret the poems in order to answer the research question. The researcher use reading technique as the method of collecting data. The reading technique used in this study is the technique of reading a poem by Collins (2001-2003).. The method of analyzing data in this study also follows Collins technique because this study requires the data to be analyzed as data being collected.

The result of this study reveals that in Michael Ryan poem, the social minority is mainly reflected and represented in five elements. First is word repetition, second is imagery, third is figurative language, fourth is symbolism and the last is irony. The influence of society where the poem is created also gives a lot of impact on how minority issue is being represented.

Keywords: Genetic Structuralism, Poem, Minority, Society.