Abstract

This research aims to know the independently of early childhood that was cared by relative. This research uses qualitative research descriptive method. The subject of this research is 4 early children. The finding of this research shows that 1) Parenting relative style for early childhood consists of permissive parenting. Permissive parenting style shows attitude of caregiver that always accompanies the child when to school and always gives what the child want. Besides that, the caregiver limits the child to interact with the other child because afraid hurted and contend. 2) One of the influence of the independently of early childhood that was cared by family is parenting style that was applied by the relative. For the confidence aspect, child brave to front and brave to do something that reputed true. For determine choice aspect, child braves to choose his/her choice, but cannot accept the consequence for his/her choice. For adaptation self aspect, child still needs the rescue to diffuse with friend, less to respect friend, and less to have attitude that want to collaborate with the other.
